eLearning Seminar

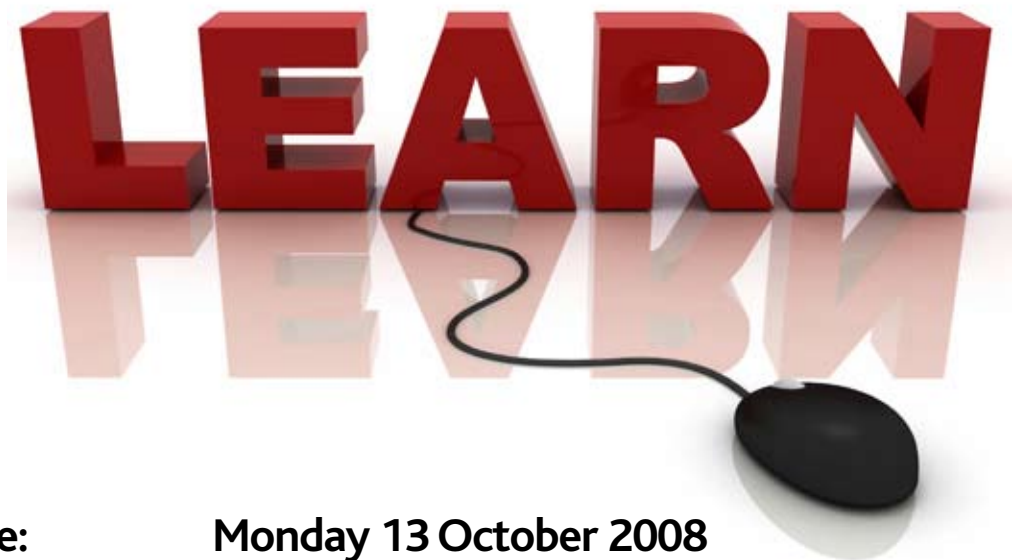

Using video to enhance teaching and learning with new generation eLearning technologies

The University of Waikato is pleased to welcome Gresham Bradley who will present a seminar on how digital video content can be used in teaching and learning through New Zealand's online video service, 'e-cast education'.

Gresham Bradley brings more than 30 years experience in educational programming and production management to e-cast. In British Columbia, Canada, he was one of the founding staff of the Knowledge Network, BC's Educational Television service, with a lead role in its development, production and programming.

Gresham is now leading the Marketing and Development of new business for e-cast.
